

Round Opens/Closes: Ongoing

In a SSSHARC Ultimate Peer Review, a recognized world authority evaluates the full draft of a major research output (book, article, or NTRO) by a University of Sydney researcher and offers rigorous and constructive criticism to take the work from great to landmark. Applicants must have a high-ranking publisher (or equivalent) in frame (i.e., contracted or with an agreed deadline for submission) and a full draft of a manuscript (or equivalent) at the time of the review. The UPR session has an invited audience of disciplinary peers, including postgraduate research students, who will also be given access to draft portions of the manuscript. SSSHARC can provide funding to bring the expert reviewer to Sydney to allow for meaningful engagement around the manuscript and other research activities. UPR events may take place over Zoom by arrangement. SSSHARC must be acknowledged in the resulting publication. Expressions of interest can be submitted at any time.

Eligibility

SSSHARC Ultimate Peer Review applicants should be on continuing appointments with a research component in FASS. Colleagues from Architecture, Design and Planning, and Business and Law can apply with a matching funding commitment from the relevant Faculty or School.
