Information about higher degree by research (HDR) scholarship payments in 2024

Keep this information for your reference

How are scholarship stipend payments made?

Scholarship stipends are paid fortnightly, in arrears, via the University Payroll on alternate Thursdays. Please see the cut-off dates included on the page below.

Payments are deposited into the student's nominated Australian bank account.

How do I commence my scholarship payments?

You must first commence and then submit your fully completed commencement form and any associated documents to the Higher Degree by Research Administration Centre (HDRAC) by the relevant payroll cut-off date (see below). Please refer to your scholarship offer letter for details of what you must submit.

When are the payroll cut-off dates?

Please submit your completed and fully signed form the Higher Degree by Research Administration Centre (HDRAC) as soon as possible once you have commenced your research. Payroll normally cuts off on the Monday (5:00pm) of the week prior to the payday. However, in extremely busy periods, e.g. during March and July, your payment cannot be guaranteed to be processed in time for the next pay day.

Can scholarships be paid in advance of/after the payday?

No. If you have missed the payroll cut-off then your payment cannot be made until the next pay period. If you are in financial difficulties you may be eligible for a student loan. Please call Student Services for financial assistance http://sydney.edu.au/stuserv/financial_assistance_office/

How much will I receive in my first payment?

If your scholarship commences in the middle of the current pay period you will receive a partial fortnight's payment on payday. If your scholarship commencement date is prior to the start of the current pay period you will receive a back payment.

What is my Payroll ID number?

The University payroll system assigns each payee a 7-digit Payroll ID number. If you have not previously received payment from the University Payroll, you will be assigned a Payroll ID number which can be found on your payslip. Previous or current employees or scholarship holders who have already been assigned a Payroll ID number should provide this number on the Scholarships Commencement Form.

Can I obtain a payslip?

Yes. Payslips are electronic and can be accessed through WorkDay (see the Quick links section at <http://sydney.edu.au/staff/>). You will need to login using your UniKey and password.

How do I change my address and other contact details?

If you change your address or other contact details, you will need to update your details in both your Sydney Student portal and on myHRonline. It is imperative that you change both records, as changes made in Sydney Student only will not update your record on the University's payroll system.

How do I change my bank account details?

To change your bank account details login to myHRonline using your UniKey and Password. If you have any problems logging into myHRonline, contact the ICT Helpdesk on 9351 6000 (or x16000 from internal phones). IMPORTANT: This process will only update the account used for scholarship payments made through the payroll, you also need to update these details in the My Finance section of the Sydney Student portal.

I haven't received the scholarship payment that I was expecting. Who do I contact?

Contact the Higher Degree by Research Administration Centre (HDRAC) at hdrac.scholarships@sydney.edu.au
