Student accommodation, 2020
Explore your options

Whether you’re moving from overseas, interstate or around the corner, deciding where to live may be one of the biggest decisions you make when starting university.

Living on or close to campus can enhance your university experience as you’ll find it easier to immerse yourself in all the possibilities of the student lifestyle.

On-campus living

Living on campus puts you right in the heart of student life, so you can make the most of your study and leisure time. There are seven residential colleges and seven University residences on the Camperdown/Darlington Campus. Explore the table for the full list of on-campus living options.

Residential colleges

If you’re moving out of home for the first time, our on-campus colleges are a great way to make friends and transition into independence.

Residential colleges are externally managed and provide three catered meals a day, laundry services and fully furnished rooms.

University residences

The University of Sydney has several residence halls on campus where you can enjoy quality, affordable, self-catered housing.

They are available to undergraduate and postgraduate students. Please note that Selle House is for postgraduate students only.
Off-campus living

More than 90 percent of our students live off campus. The University is close to many vibrant and multicultural suburbs such as Annandale, Newtown, Chippendale and Glebe.

Check out our extensive online database to start searching for your new home.

Independently-run student housing
Independent providers also offer undergraduate and postgraduate students accommodation close to the Camperdown/Darlington Campus.

Share houses
Renting a house to share with friends or other students, or joining an already established share house can be a great way to make new friends and experience what our eclectic city has to offer.

“Being right in the heart of Sydney, you are so close to everything: the cafés of Glebe, the shops of Newtown. There’s a real sense of energy and life.”
