

Transfer

Transfer of enrolment between medical schools is not possible, other than in exceptional circumstances. Applications for transfer to the MD for 2020 close on 30 September 2019.

Transfer will not be considered if an applicant has previously applied unsuccessfully for admission to the MD.

Applicants for transfer must have met the requirements for admission to the MD that were in place at the time of admission to their current medical school.

Applicants for transfer must complete at least 50 per cent of the MD at the University of Sydney (ie transfers will only be considered for entry into Year 1, Year 2 and Year 3).

Matters that the Head of School and Dean will take into account when considering an application for transfer include:

1. The circumstances leading to a request for transfer;
2. Whether the medical program curriculum undertaken by the applicant at the current institution is comparable to the MD, as determined by the Sydney Medical School;
3. The applicant's academic performance in the current medical program; and
4. The availability of places in the year applied for.

Applicants for transfer may be required to undertake a barrier examination to demonstrate the necessary capabilities for entry into the appropriate year of the MD.

Applicants will be required to consent to the release of all documents relevant to their current course.
