This is the Working with Children Policy 2014.

2 Commencement

This policy commences on 12 March 2014.

3 Policy is binding

Except to the extent that a contrary intention is expressed, this policy binds the University, staff, students and affiliates.
4 Statement of intent

The University is committed to ensuring the safety and well-being of children who are involved in or may be affected by University activities by:

(a) requiring individuals engaged in child-related work to have a working with children check clearance in accordance with the Act;
(b) excluding from child-related work individuals whom the Children’s Guardian has barred from working with children or as otherwise determined by the University; and
(c) informing staff, students and affiliates of their obligations under child protection legislation.

Note: In the limited circumstances where staff and students are permitted to bring their own children into University workplaces and premises, refer to the Children in University Workplaces and Premises Policy.

5 Application

(1) This policy applies to staff, students and affiliates.
(2) This policy does not apply to individuals employed by entities that are not part of or controlled by the University. This includes individuals employed by independently operated child care centres.

child-related work means work involving face-to-face contact with children in a child-related sector as designated by the Act. It may be paid or unpaid.

clinical placement means a professional practice placement undertaken within a workplace setting by allied health, medical, nursing and midwifery students who are enrolled in a tertiary institution

Children’s Guardian means the Office of the Children’s Guardian which is an independent statutory body managing the working with children check.

professional placement means, for the purposes of this policy, all student placements within a workplace setting other than clinical placements working with children check means the background checking process which is a prerequisite for individuals engaged in child-related work, and involves a full national criminal history check and a review of reported workplace misconduct.

working with children check clearance means an authorisation from the Children's Guardian to engage in child-related work.

7 Child-related work

(1) A working with children check is required for all child-related work.

(2) Designated child-related sectors relevant to work undertaken in the University include but are not limited to:

(a) child development and family welfare services including mentoring and counselling services for children;

(b) children's health services where a health practitioner or other person is treating children in hospitals or other settings;

Note: Work as a student in a clinical placement in a hospital or other health service does not require a working with children check under the Regulation due to an adequate probity checking mechanism already in place for such placements through NSW Health.

(c) work in schools or other educational institutions (other than universities) or in the tuition of children;

Note: Where University staff or affiliates have direct contact with University students under the age of 18, this is not regarded as child-related work under the Act.
(d) work in clubs or other bodies providing cultural, recreational, sporting or other community service primarily for children;

(e) work in the provision of entertainment services on a commercial basis primarily for children;

(f) work at residential services for children or overnight camps for children.

Note: For more detailed information about each of these child-related sectors refer to Part 2 of the Regulation.

Note: Individuals working or placed in NSW Health or NSW Education (or with private health or education providers) are subject to the working with children requirements of these workplaces. Refer to NSW Health and NSW Education websites for further information.

(3) The University may, as a risk management strategy, also require staff, students and affiliates to obtain a working with children check where these activities are not directly aligned to the designated child-related sectors referred to in clause 7 (2), such as:

(a) conducting research activities with children;

Note: This will be part of the human ethics approval process, refer to the Research Code of Conduct 2013 and the Research website.

(b) or other activities as deemed appropriate by the Director, Human Resources.

8 Working with children check

(1) Staff, students and affiliates engaged in child-related work are responsible for holding a current working with children check.

(2) The University will verify the working with children check status of all individuals engaged in child-related work.

(3) The result of a working with children check is either:

(a) a clearance to engage in any child-related work in NSW for five years, with the worker continually monitored for relevant new records during the life of the clearance; or

(b) a bar against working with children, which means it is a criminal offence to engage in any child-related work, whether paid or unpaid.

(4) The University will not engage a barred person in child-related work and will remove any such person from child-related work, or suspend or terminate the employment or appointment of a person who becomes a barred person in accordance with the Act.

9 Timeframe for applying for the working with children check

(1) New staff commencing at the University in child-related work, or existing staff transferring to a position which is child-related work, must apply for a working with children check before they start working in the relevant position.
(2) Existing staff undertaking a new research activity which is child-related work must apply for a working with children check before they commence the research.

Note: Refer to section 8 in the Research Code of Conduct 2013

(3) Contractors holding a current certificate for self-employed people may continue to use this certificate in child-related work at the University, but on its expiry must apply for a working with children check.

(4) Existing staff engaged in child-related work at the University will apply for a working with children check when advised by the University, but no later than the phase-in schedule of the Regulation.

(5) All students undertaking professional placements in child-related work, research students engaged in research which constitutes child-related work and affiliates engaged in child-related work, will apply for a working with children check when advised by the University, but no later than the phase-in schedule of the Regulation.

Note: Refer to the phase-in schedule on the Children's Guardian website for information on when each child-related sector is being phased in over the period 2013 to 2018.
