7 Recordkeeping principles

- (1) The University must establish and maintain a records management program.
- (2) The records management program must meet the minimum compliance requirements of State Records Standard No 12, Standard on records management, 2014.
 - (a) The components of the University's records management program are specified in clause 8 of this policy.
- (3) Records and information needed to meet or support the requirements of the University must be identified as such.
 - (a) Business needs for information and accountability must be identified.
 - (b) Risks to information or systems that hold records and information must be identified and mitigated.
- (4) The University's business must be appropriately recorded.
 - (a) Records must be made to document or facilitate the transaction of any University business activity.
 - (i) Records can be automatically generated by a business system or deliberately made by a person involved in the transaction.
 - (b) Records must be full, accurate, authentic, reliable and trustworthy.
 - (c) Decisions about what records need to be created to support particular business activities must be based on an evaluation of the risks involved.
 - (d) If a record was not an automatic or direct byproduct of business activity, the record should be made as soon as practicable after the event.
- (5) Records must be captured in one of the following recordkeeping systems:
 - (a) the University recordkeeping system managed by ARMS;
 - (b) one of:
 - (i) an enterprise business system;
 - (ii) a local business system approved by the Manager, ARMS, or
 - (iii) a local process approved by the Manager, ARMSwhich meets the requirements of the State Records Authority's standard on records management Standard No 12, Standard on records management, 2014; or
 - (c) any other system approved by the Manager, ARMS.
- (6) Records must be appropriately managed across all operating environments including diverse system environments and physical locations.
- (7) Records must be maintained and managed for as long as they are needed.

- (a) The University recordkeeping system must be designed to maintain and manage records for as long as needed.
 - (b) The University Archives must provide permanent custody for University archives and State archives.
 - (c) Business systems must be:
 - (i) designed and managed as recordkeeping systems; or
 - (ii) structured to transfer records to the University recordkeeping system managed by ARMS.
 - (d) Contractual arrangements for outsourced, cloud and similar service agreements must:
 - (i) require that records are maintained, secure and accessible for as long as they are required; and
 - (ii) specify what must happen to the records at the expiration of the agreement.
- (8) Recordkeeping systems must be authorised, maintained and managed for as long as they are needed.
- (a) Business owners must ensure that business systems meet the requirements of this policy, particularly those of subclause 7(6)(c).
 - (b) When business systems are upgraded or replaced the records they contain, together with their recordkeeping metadata, must be migrated to the upgraded or replacement system.
- (9) Decommissioning of business systems must be appropriately managed.
- (a) When business systems are upgraded, replaced or abandoned the business owner, or other responsible person if there is no longer a business owner, must make arrangements with ARMS for authorised disposal of the records they contain.
- (10) Disposal of records must be appropriately authorised.
- (a) Records must not be destroyed or otherwise disposed of without authorisation:
 - (i) Approval for the disposal of records must be sought from the Records Manager, as specified in the Recordkeeping Manual.
 - (ii) Records may only be destroyed in a manner approved by ARMS.
 - (iii) Ephemeral, duplicated and merely facilitative records may be destroyed in accordance with the normal administrative practice procedures specified in the Recordkeeping Manual.
 - (b) Records required to be retained as University archives or State archives must, when they cease being in active use, be managed in accordance with the Recordkeeping Manual.
- (11) Access to records must be appropriately authorised.
- (a) All staff and affiliates must have access to the records that they need for business purposes.
 - (b) Access to records which have restricted access requirements must be approved by the head of the unit which manages that class of record.
 - (c) Staff and affiliates should access records only when they have a business need to do so.

- (d) Records and the information in them must be accessed, used and disclosed only in accordance with legislative requirements and University policies and procedures.
 - (e) ARMS will manage all applications for access to records under right to information or privacy legislation and in response to subpoenas or warrants.
 - (i) All staff and affiliates must comply when ARMS seeks records for these purposes.
- (12) Amendment of records must be appropriately authorised and documented.
- (a) Records must only be amended with proper authorisation.
 - (b) Details of each amendment must remain attached to the record's recordkeeping metadata.
 - (c) When records are amended in accordance with the Privacy and Personal Information Act 1998 \(NSW\), the Health Records and Information Privacy Act 2002 \(NSW\) or by court order, details of the amendment must remain attached to the record's recordkeeping metadata.
