(3) While outstanding scholarly performance in a particular discipline in either research or teaching would serve to reinforce the FPEAC’s judgement that an applicant has contributed to the academic work of the faculty and the University, this in itself is not sufficient for recommending conferring the title.

(7) All expressions of interest should be on this form and address all the criteria.

(8) A Head of School may work with an applicant on the form.

(9) The FPEAC will:
   (a) assess all completed expressions of interest; and
   (b) prepare a report for the Executive Dean, providing reasons for recommending or not recommending each nomination.

12 Unsuccessful applications

(1) No appeal is available against any decision not to recommend or not to confer the title of Professor Emeritus or Emerita.

(2) If a nomination is unsuccessful, the relevant delegate may award the title of Honorary Professor to the nominee, consistently with the policy and the procedures.

   (a) This award would be for a maximum period of three years.

ADDITIONAL CRITERIA FOR APPOINTMENT OF PROFESSORS EMERITI IN THE FACULTY OF MEDICINE AND HEALTH

Professor Emerita or Emeritus

(1) The title of Professor Emerita or Professor Emeritus may be conferred on a retiring professor of the University in recognition of sustained distinguished service during the period they were employed by the University.

(2) The award of the title will be made in consideration of the following normative criteria:

(a) having held a position at the University for a period of at least 10 years or, in exceptional circumstances, five years;

(b) having been outstanding in research, relative to faculty norms for Level E staff;

(c) having been outstanding in teaching, demonstrating significant leadership in teaching over a long period;

(d) having been outstanding in service, and demonstrated leadership in such areas as mentoring, University service, service to the discipline and the community;

(e) where none of subclauses (2)(a) to (d) apply, having nevertheless been exceptional in one or more of the key areas of research, teaching or service.

(3) Although a Professor Emerita or Emeritus may continue to serve the University after retirement, the title is awarded in recognition of a past record of distinguished service and not with the requirement or expectation of future service to the University.

(4) Unless there are exceptional circumstances, the title will only be conferred on professors who are retiring.

(5) Those awarded the title may choose to use the title of Emeritus Professor instead.
